PREFACE

This bibliography addresses itself to some of the needs of the many participants in the International Year of the Child (1979). Its purpose is to provide data regarding sources of information about young children which are available in the United States. The materials included here have been selected from the wealth of offerings available. They provide a starting point in the search for information by child care professionals and advocates.

We hope that this publication will serve as a resource for action during the International Year of the Child, and after the year has concluded.
